BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE TOUR:

This trip is mainly focused on observing the migratory passage in the Strait of Gibraltar and many species of Waders in various parts of the Cadiz and Seville geography.

The best time of the year to observe the post-nuptial passage of the migrating species is late summer.

If wind is favorable you can see thousands of Birds of Prey and Storks crossing this narrow strip of sea that separates Europe from Africa.

It is not surprising to spot species rarely seen in other places of the Spanish geography as the Rüppell's Griffon Vulture and the Lesser Spotted Eagle.

In the Lances Beach you can also see seabirds like Cory's and Balearic Shearwaters and Northern Gannets.

We will also make a visit to the area of La Janda and several marshes and beaches to observe closely a great variety of Waders and Terns.

If we are lucky we will also try to spot the Northern Bald Ibis that have been reintroduced in this Province.

On the way back to Madrid we will make a visit to meet and enjoy the birds that find a refuge to live in El Brazo del Este.

In the following link you can see some of the birds seen in another similar trip: El Estrecho de Gibraltar

TARGET BIRDS:

Cory's and Balearic Shearwater, Northern Gannet, Glossy Ibis, Northern Bald Ibis, White and Black Storks, Griffon and Rüppell's Griffon Vultures, Egyptian Vulture, Black-shouldered Kite, Short-toed Eagle, European Honey Buzzard, Common Pheasant, Eurasian Oystercatcher, Kentish Plovers, Bar-tailed and Black-tailed Godwits, Grey Plover, Little Stint, Curlew Sandpiper, Dunlin, Red Knot, Sanderling, Slender-billed and Audouin's Gulls, Common, Little and Black Terns, among other species.
