DESCRIPTION OF THE TOUR:

This National Park has been recently established, June 27, 2013 . It has an area of 30,000 hectares which makes it the fourth largest in Spain and is located between the Provinces of Madrid and Segovia. In it 11 different ecosystems converge highlighting the high mountains which will be our first target.

Our trip starts walking by paths that run between the pass of Navacerrada and Cotos. We will visit the Glacial Cirque of Peñalara. In this route is easy to see Griffon and Monk Vultures plus a remarkable community forest raptors. In this area of outstanding beauty they also live mountain species like Blue and Rock Thrushes, Bluethroat and Alpine Accentor. It is not hard to find Common Crossbills , Citril Finch and Goldcrest among others. All this in an environment of Scots Pines giving way to brooms finishing in pastures and crags .

Immediately afterwards we will descend to the Valley of Lozoya looking for other species of birds found in this unique setting its northernmost distribution in the Iberian Peninsula as Whinchat, Red-backed Shrike , Tree Pipit and Song Thrush.

TARGET BIRDS:

Griffon and Black Vultures, Black and Red Kites, Northern Goshawk, Booted and Short-toed Eagles, Peregrine Falcon, Wryneck, Lesser Spotted Woodpecker, Hedge and Alpine Accentors, Rock Thrush, Northern Wheatear, Song Thrush, Mistle Thrush, Thekla Lark, Dipper, Tree, Tawny and Water Pipits, Whinchat, Goldcrest, Firecrest, Pied Flycatcher, Crested and Coal Tits, Red-backed Shrike, Azure-winged Magpie, Eurasian Jay, Red-billed Chough, Citril Finch, Common Crossbill, Oortolan and Rock Buntings among others. Sightings of listed species depends on the year's season of the visit.
